

About iLRN Design Guild

The Design Guild is the iLRN community's dedicated space for advancing the craft of XR learning design — bringing together educators, designers, developers, and practitioners to share ideas, showcase exemplary work, and collectively raise the standard of immersive learning experiences. It is a space for asking the big questions: what workshops and training opportunities should iLRN offer, how do we attract the best talent, and what does truly engaging XR-for-learning design look like in practice?

The FrameVR space provides a dedicated environment for design workshops, showcases, and collaborative sessions.

Community members are encouraged to share ideas, examples of innovative practice, and nominations for outstanding XR learning design, and to participate in workshops and design challenges as they are announced. Discussions and community building continue through the dedicated club on the iLRN website.
